Special PAD Event with National Institutes of Health
guest speakers

Professional and Academic Development (PAD) Seminar Series
Thursday, March 21, 2013 10-11:30 a.m.
Bernath Auditorium, Undergraduate Library

PUBLIC PRESENTATION - MAKING INTERDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH AND EDUCATION SUCCESSFUL: Creating Research Collaborations and Changing
Institutional Cultures

In a public presentation, team science experts at the National Institutes of Health will discuss what it takes to construct successful research collaborations across disciplines and changes needed in the campus infrastructure to support them. Drawing from research and first-hand experience, they will examine barriers and challenges while introducing ways to overcome them.

MODERATOR:
• Julie Thompson Klein, Professor of Humanities in the English Department and Faculty Fellow for Interdisciplinary Development in the Division of Research at WSU

PANELISTS:
• L. Michelle Bennett, Deputy Scientific Director, Division of Intramural Research (DIR), National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI) from the National Institutes of Health and
• Howard Gadlin, Ombudsman and Director of the Center for Cooperative Resolution for the National Institutes of Health.